OUTLINES.

Before the adjournment of the House yesterday Congressman Tawney made a statement reviewing the appropriation legislation of the session just closed. He tries to saddle the minority with the responsibility for the large appropriations made——Keene's horse, Colin, won the race and the $25,000 purse yesterday amid the enthusiastic applause of a crowd composed of thousands——Congress yesterday passed the general deficiency bill after statements on both sides as to appropriations by the Congress——The Government Employes' Liability bill passes the Senate with only one dissenting vote——Congress adjourned late yesterday afternoon——The Yale-Princeton baseball game was interrupted by a violent rain and wind storm yesterday——Harvard boat crew won an easy victory over Cornell yesterday——Cornell came out first in the Inter-Collegiate Athletic Sports on the field at Philadelphia yesterday——One of the last things the Senate did yesterday was to approve the conference report on the compromise currency bill——The obstruction tactics in the Senate of the last few days were something unusual in that body——Senator Knox was the orator of the day at the Gettysburg battle field celebration yesterday——In New York last night a man named Herman Hitker, actuated by jealousy shot his sweetheart and then himself. The girl is seriously wounded and the self-inflicted wound proved fatal.

Yesterday being a national holiday of course our market reports are short.

The Durham Herald seriously remarks: "No matter which way you voted let us al stand pat for a strict enforcement of the law."

Senator LaFollette seems to have punished himself more than any one else in his effort to talk the compromise currency bill to death.

This time next week all the hotels on Wrightsville beach will be open for guests and things will be lively down that way.

If Congress does not make haste and adjourn it will have to put up with the reading of another special message from Mr. Roosevelt.

If this airship business continues to progress won't the people soon find that thy are wasting money building good roads?

Mr. Bryan is not a baseball enthusiast and Governor Johnson is a great admirer of the game. That ought to settle the political contest between the two.

Wonder if the Republicans are going to let Marion Butler fool them again by making them believe the Democratic party is going to split on this now settled prohibition question?

At Syracuse, N. Y., there is a young white woman who is anxious to marry a negro, but her family seriously objects. We say if her tasts be that way, by all means, let her indulge them and take the negro as her husband.

If Judge Pritchard wants to continue to keep in the good graces of the Democratic leaders in this State he should make up his mind not to issue any more Federal court injunctions against the State or its high officrs.

We do not know whether or not it would be for the good of the country to have that compromise currency bill defeated, but we do know that if the Republicans were determined to pass it no filibustering on the part of Mr. LaFollette could keep it from passing.

We have no fears that the Republicans can make anything out of the recent election as is indicated, by an article from the Durham Herald published in another column of this issue, they contemplate attempting. The Tar Heel Democrats are Democrats still. The Republicans may as well understand that now.

—The matter has been settled as it should be—by vote of the people. Now let the law be enforced. It is up to every good citizen, no matter how he voted last Tuesday, to see to it that when the law goes into effect on January 1st, 1909, that every violator of that law is reported, just as any good citizen would report a case of theft, arson or any other violation of law. Bad men will doubtless break the liquor law frequently and thereby try to make it odious and will try to prove that it is not practical to prohibit the sale of liquor. The blind tiger can be suppressed if every good citizen, no matter how he voted on the matter of legalizing the manufacture and sale of liquor will do his duty in the matter of upholding the law.—Monroe Enquirer.

FORT AGAIN DOWNED

Strong Wilmington League Team Closed Door on Heels of Soldier Team.

WAS A SPLENDID GAME

Locals Showing Up in Fine Form—Hoey is Welcomed by the Fans and They Like Him—Score Nine to Nothing.

The reinforced Fort Caswell baseball team had the doors closed upon their heels by the strong Eastern Carolina League team of Wilmington at the new park before about three hundred of the faithful yesterday afternoon. The score was nine to nothing and the Leaguers fully met the expectation of the enthusiastic Wilmington fans in their movements on the field.

The soldier boys put up a first-class game but the Leaguers played high-class, league winning ball, if you please, and the visitors simply could not connect with Johnson, who went on the slab for the locals. He yielded but one clean hit and three scratches. The feature of the entire game was the work of Hoey at first base. He is really a wonder and was seen on the diamond yesterday for the first time. He accepted all chances and fielded his position in a spectacular manner without a single error in spite of the fact that the diamond is perhaps one of the fastest in the League and this was his first appearance. Hoey can have anything in the gift of the Wilmington fans already. Johnson on the slab for Wilmington allowed three pases but he demonstrated that he is to be reckoned with on the pitching staff of the club. The score:

Wilmington ..	100 503 00x	9	14	1
Caswell	000 000 000	0	4	5

Batteries—Johnston and McDonnell; Daines, Macomber and Daines.

Summary—Struck out by Johnston 3, Daines 2, Macomber 3. Bases on balls, off Johnston 4; off Daines 2, off Macomber 1. Double plays Anderson and Macomber; Finnerty, Carneal and Hoey. Three base hit, McDonell. Umpire, Mr. Davis. Time 1:25. Attendance 273.

THE PARISH BROTHERHOOD.

First Quarterly Meeting of Brotherhood at Rectory of St. John's.

The first quarterly meeting of the Brotherhood of St. John's was held Friday evening at the rectory and brought together a goodly number of the men of the parish, who were delighted with the pleasures of the evening. Mr. W. A. Dunn, director of the Brotherhood, called the meeting to order and after a hymn and an opening prayer by the rector the meeting was turned over to Rev. W. E. Cox, who delivered the address of welcome. The response was in graceful manner by Mr. J. D. Smith. The most delightful feature of the entire evening was an address by Rev. R. W. Hogue, rector of St. James', who gave a most interesting and helpful review of the origin, history and work of the Brotherhood. He was listened to with the most enthusiastic attention. Impromptu remarks were made by several of the members after which the company was dismissed with prayer and benediction. The more formal part of the exercises then gave way to a delightful spread of refreshment, superintended by five or six of the ladies o fthe parish.

The evening was voted quite a charming success by all in attendance.

Alleged Criminal Assault Case.

Timothy Clemmons, the middle-aged white man of family arrested several days ago at Delgado for an alleged criminal assault early in May upon a little girl under 14 years of age, was arraigned for preliminary trial before Justice Furlong yesterday afternoon. After hearing part of the testimony, his attorney, Clayton Grant, Esq., waived further examination and Clemmons was re-committed to jail without bond. County Attorney Marsden Bellanmy prosecuted the case.

THE WEEK AT LUMBERTON

Friends of Horne and Kitchin Are Active in Robeson—News and Personal Notes From the County Seat.

(Spcial Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., May 30.—Handbills are being distributed through this section calling on th lovers of good government to meet in the opera house Monday night, June 3rd, for the purpose of organizing a Horne Club. Some of Mr. Horne's friends claim that he will have at least half of Robeson's vote in the State convention. That part of it will be settled next Saturday when the primaries are held in the different townships. One thing is sure, Mr. Horne seems to be growing in strength all the time.

The Kitchin Club held its first meeting Thursday night. Mr. R. D. Caldwell was elected president. Several visitors were present, representing both Mr. Craig and Mr. Horne, who when invited to do so made appropriate talks.

The Class of Orphans from Oxford Asylum gave a concert in the opera house last night and delighted a very large audience, the house being packed and many turnd away who were unable to gain admittance.

Register of Deeds D. W. Bullock, who decided several months ago, that he would not be a candidate for re-election this year, has had such strong pressure brought to bear upon him, it is very probable that he will in a few days announce himself again as an aspirant for that office.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Birmingham have the sympathy of many friends in the loss of their ten-months-old son, Ralf, who died Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. C. H. Durham yesterday afternoon and the interment was made in Meadow Brook cemetery.

The congregation of the Methodist church expect in the near future to erect a handsome new church to cost not less than $30,000. At a meeting Wednesday night $7,000 of the amount was pledged in a few minutes. It is proposed to move the parsonage building some distance from the present site and erect the church thereon.

An excursion is advertised to be run from Wadesboro to Wilmington and return next Tuesday, the 2nd. The train will pass here at 8:28 P. M. Round trip fare from Lumberton, $1.25. Suit cases will be much in evidence.

During the revival meetings which have been in progress in the Methodist church for several days, nine new members were added. The meetings closed Wednesday night.

The official count of the prohibitin electin made some slight changes in the figures which were given at the time. The majority was reduced to 1,928 instead of 2,005 as first given.

Many friends of Mrs. Martha Edmunds, who went to Charlotte for treatment a few days ago, will be glad to learn that she is improving.——Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Thomas, formerly of Lumberton, have the sympathy of many friends in the death of their little son, which occurred a few days ago at their home in Rockingham——While several young men were strolling along the street one night this week, singing they were the recipients of a shower of brickbats thrown, it is said, by a gentleman who claimed that the singing disturbed him——We are glad to report the condition of Mrs. D. .P Shaw, who is in Salisbury for treatment, as much improved.

SEMINOLE IN PORT.

Revenue Cutter Reached the City Yesterday—Change of Officers.

The United States Revenue Cutter Seminole, Capt. J. H. Quinan commanding, arrived in port yesterday from an uneventful and very pleasant cruise as far south as Jacksonville Fla. The cutter was on the look-out for violation of the navigation laws in general and the gasolene boat regulations in particular, several reports having been made to the Department at Washington. This week the Seminole will go up to Beaufort for practice with the small arms after which she will return to take up her Summer anchorage at Southport.

A number of changes have taken place in Capt. Quinan's staff since he was here, including the transfer of Lieutenants Cutcheon and Farwell, which has been noted. There arrived yesterday to join the ship Cadet M. J. Ryan, of Colorado. Lieut. H. W. Speer, who has been on special duty at Arundel Cove, is expected to join the staff any day to fill one of the vacancies.

Friends of Capt. Quinan will be pleased to know that he is expecting a leave of absence during this month and that he is anticipating a pleasant trip abroad, joining Mrs. Quinan in Paris about the last of the month. Mrs. Quinan has been traveling in Europe for some weeks.

Were Stealing Crates of Eggs.

Officer M. P. Newton yesterday afternoon arrested Charles Rose, a colored drayman, charged with the larceny of eggs from the produce store of Mr. W. J. Meredith, on Princess street. Later James Smith, colored, who keeps a restaurant at Second and Brunswick, was also arrested charged with receiving the stolen goods. The case will come up Monday.

WAS KITCHIN DAY

Primaries Held in Nine Counties of State Yesterday For Gubernatorial Honors.

RETURNS ARE INCOMPLETE

Stormy Session of Brunswick Democrats at Lockwood's Folly—No Returns From Camden—Vote Approximately.

Primaries were held in nine counties of the State yesterday and the results were eagerly watched by those interested in the three-cornered race that is in progress for the gubernatorial nomination.

From incomplete returns received from eight of the nine counties last night, it would appear that it was rather a field day for Mr. Kitchin, who captures approximately 47 of the votes in the State convention from those counties, Mr. Ashley Horne coming second with 13 1-4 votes and Mr. Craig, who is leading the race in the State, third with approximately 11.62 votes. Nothing was heard from Camden county last night but the result in the others appear from the following tabulation of the returns as nearly as it was able to approximate:

	Kitchin	Horne	Craig
Brunswick		4	—
Scotland	1.34	1.04	1.62
Forsyth	12.50	1.25	2.25
Cumberland	5	3	3
Bladen..	4	.50	2.50
Columbus	8	1.50	1.50
Rockingham	11	1.50	.50
Caswell..	5.25	.50	.25
Total....	47.09	13.29	11.62

Of course the official returns from the primary may show some slight variations from the above, but the figures are approximately correct. The returns from the several counties as received by telegraph last night is as follows:

Reidsville, N. C., May 30.—In the primaries today Rockingham divided her vote as to Governor in the State convention as folows: Craig one half, Kitchin eleven and Horne one and a half.

Whiteville, N. C., May 30—Returns are very incomplete here tonight, only near-by precincts being heard from. Kitchin men claim that their candidate will receive eight of the county's eleven votes in the State convention.

Elizabethtown, N. C., May 30.—Seven of the fifteen townships have been heard from tonight on the basis of which the Kitchin men claim four, Craig two and a half, and Horne one-half as the vote in the State convention from Bladen. This is not regarded as conservative and it is believed the official returns will show gains for Horne.

Southport, N. C., May 30.—Brunswick County Democrats held a mass convention today at Lockwood's Folly Bridge under the majority rule, instructing solidly for Horne. There were about 250 delegates present and Geo. H. Bellamy was made permanent chairman. A majority of about fifty withdrew from the convention before the business was completed and held a convention of their own, voting to send an uninstructed contesting delegation to the State Convention at Charlotte. The main body of the convention is recognized by the Democratic organization of the county and will oppose the minority at Charlotte. Hon. H. L. Godwin was enthusiastically endorsed for Congress; Aycock for Corporation Commissioner and M. L. Shipman for Commissioner of Labor and Printing. The appointment of the delegation was left with Chairman Bellamy.

Laurinburg, N. C., May 30—Scotland primaries give Craig 1.62, Kitchin 1.34 and Horne 1.04. Peele for the State Senate carried every precinct but one.

Fayetteville, N. C., May 30.—The latest figures that can be obtained from the primaries held in the city and county last night and today give the following votes in the county convention for the gubernatorial candidates, from the 19 precincts heard from Kitchin 86.6, Horne 51.8, Craig 51.6. As Cumberland has 11 votes in the State convention and as the vote in four precincts unheard from will not materially affect the result, this will give the following vote in the Charlotte convention: Kitchin 5, Horne 3, and Craig 3.

Winston-Salem, N. C., May 30.—Primaries were held in Forsyth county today to ascertain the relative strength of the candidates for Governor. The returns reached tonight indicate that Kitchin will receive 12 1-2. Craig 2 1- 4and Horne 1 1-4 of the 16 votes the county is entitled to in State Convention.

Chairman Springer desires it stated that any of the delegates who are appointed and cannot attend the conventions should make known this fact to him at their earliest convenience as no alternates are appointed and their places will have to be filled by later appointment if they cannot attend.

In the game between the first named teams Mintz and Zellers formed the battery for the victorious Rattlers and Sallings and McClellan for the vanquished Giants. Peschau and Moore were at the firing ends for the Monarchs and Duls and Levi for the Y. M. C. A., in the tie game. The pitching for both teams was the feature, Peschau yielding but two hits during the entire game of eleven innings. Games will be played next Saturday as usual.

ANTI-INSTRUCTION SENTIMENT.

That the Johnson sentiment and opposition to instructing delegates to the Denver convention is increasing is made perfectly plain day by day. The following New Orleans dispatch of last Friday shows what a change is coming over the Democrats of Louisiana:

"Bryan can get more delegates and fewer votes than any presidential candidate in the history of National elections, is the way a leading Louisiana Democrat sums up the chances of the Nebraskan, which condition in a large measure explains why Louisiana is strongly inclined to go to Denver with an uninstructed delegation. In fact, the hue and cry for unfettered delegations is rapidly spreading throughout the independent Democracy of the South and while Alabama is the latest addition to the Bryan fold, the eleventh-hour fight put up by the Johnson supporters was, in its way, a revelation of surprising strength on the part of a candidate whose appearance before the South is of such recent occurrence."

While we fear that Mr. Bryan will receive the nomination ,it will not be with such unanimity as his friends claim or as it would have been some while back—before the Johnson campaign was begun. We do not admit, however, that his nomination is a certainty. Though it seems highly probable, there is a chance for Governor Johnson and his chances are increasing daily. While we prefer another man as the party's candidate, should the man who is our choice for the nomination be defeated in convention and Mr. Bryan be nominated, the Star will support him as loyally as it did on the two former occasions when he was the standard-bearer of the party and with as much vigor as we would the man of our choice had he been the nominee.

GOOD TIMES COMING BACK.

Judging from the scramble there was in New York city last Wednesday for the fifteen million dollars of Southern railroad short term six per cent. notes which were all taken up the first day they were put on the market it looks like the panic is over and faith in southern railroads has been restored. Now that the Southern has added this large sum to its cash holdings we may expect work on its double tracking and other permanent improvemnts to begin again in the near future. This is not only good for the Southern, but shows that confidence in the securities of the railroad companies of the South is being restored. Our railroads have had a terrible financial strain put upon them in the recent past. Many have had to make a desperate fight to keep their heads above water, while some have been forced to give up the fight all because they were unable to secure financial aid so easily obtained in the past. This Southern railway transaction indicates the tide has turned and that southern enterprises can now secure funds when they are able to show good security.

MAN AGAINST HORSE.

We have often heard it said that it has been repeatedly demonstrated in time of war that men had more "staying qualities" than horses on occasions when long marches were required; that day in and day out men on foot could do more marching than men on horse back. There was made in Canada a few days ago a comparative test of the powers of endurance of man and horse in a ten-mile speed race in which the former won. An exchange gives this account of this remarkable race:

"As a novel training stunt Longboat, the Indian running marvel of the Irish Canadians, who has been preparing for the Olympic games on the Brantford Reserve for a week past, ran a matched race against a trotting horse, Sam R., 2:18 1-4, for a distance of ten miles from Caledonia to Hagersville. The horse took the lead for the first two miles, but the Indian, running like a deer, passed him at eight miles and won by half a mile. He ran the ten miles in 54:30, and was fresh and strong at the finish."

"The poor candidate for office suffers much and receives but little. He is bled by beggars, slandered by enemies, criticised by friends, discouraged by doubters, deceived by the unthinking, and sometimes defeated by the majority. If he wins he loses, and the last state of the poor martyr is worse than the first."—Charity and Children.

And still the cities, towns and woods are full of men who are willing and even anxious to undergo all these things for the sake of possibly securing an office.

LET US HAVE PEACE.

From an editorial that appeared in a religious weekly paper published in this city in its issue of the 29th—three days after the election—coupled with information received from other sources, we infer that there are some who are disposed to inaugurate a boycott against the Star. We regret this, not because we fear it, however but because we think that, instead of doing anything to intensify the strife and bitterness engendered by the recent campaign, every good citizen should join in an effort to allay it. The election is over. Prohibition has been indorsed at the polls. Now, "let us have peace."

"The report of the revenue office shows that sixty blockade stills were broken up in March and fifty-one in April, an indication of what may be expected later on when the execution of the law is left to State officers."—Greensboro Record.

What does the Record mean by saying "when the execution of the law is left to State officers"? The law of the State now makes it the duty of State officers to suppress illicit distilling, but it seems that there are only one or two sheriffs in the State who attempt to enforce it. One of the latter is the sheriff of Cumberland, who has not failed to do his sworn duty in this matter, as is evidenced by the many moonshine stills he has captured.

We reproduce in this issue an interesting article from the Durham Herald headed "Some Gossip Political." It is not only interesting, but it is a warning to the Democrats of North Carolina to gird on their armor and prepare for battle. North Carolina must not be permitted to go back to the vicious rule of the Republican party.

So Harry Thaw lost out completely in his habeas corpus proceedings. He has been sent back to Matteawan and it is said the asylum board will not consent to his being transferred to some other institution.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—The Genral Education Board has apportioned a wad of Rockefeller's money to the South. Three negro institutions come in for several amounts—Tuskeegee for $10,000; Hampton, $10,000, and Spelman $12,000—while Davidson College is given $100,000 It is a great temptation. Much could be accomplished with $100,000, but were we one of the Davidson trustees, hanged if we would ever vote to accept a cent of it!—Charlotte CChronicle.

—We have misplaced the paper containing the article, but readers of this paper have doubtless observed that Secretary Taft has authorized a denial of the story that he wanted to eat with a negro on a Pullman car while traveling through the South. The incident did not happen. It seems to have attracted little attention from the newspaper fraternity, for the reason, no doubt, that most people instantly came to the conclusion, upon a perusal of the story, that it was either a product of some space writer for the Northern papers, who happened to be on hard lines, or that it had been aired for a political purpose. The Washington Post was among the papers to carry a denial of the story, Secretary Taft having returned to that city the first of the week—Industrial News.

—It was stated in our Salisbury correspondence yesterday that Col. A. H. Boyden, chairman of the State anti-prohibition committee, is in the best of humor, and says that he bows to the will of the majority and as mayor of Salisbury will carry into effect, to the best of his ability, the prohibition law and will endeavor to see that no blind tigers or places of traffic in liquor are allowed in his territory. Our correspondent says that "For a man of his age, it seems remarkable that the campaign has left no scars or bad feeling, and he seems to have forgotten the many uncalled for, unkind and untrue things that have been said about him during the campaign." Mr. Boyden was mercilessly attacked during the campaign, especially in its closing days; and yet all who know him know that he is a high-minded gentleman incapable of doing or countenancing unworthy things, no matter how great his zeal in any cause which he may espouse.—Charlotte Observer.

—In all our advocacy of Gov. John A. Johnson, of Minnesota, for Democratc presidential nominee, the Times has nevr until now taken the ground that Mr. Bryan was not a sincere man and honest. It has simply been the argument of this paper that Mr. Bryan, twice tremendously defeated aftr an exceedingly vigorous and strenuous campaign, could not possibly be elected president this year or any other year, whereas Governor Johnson, the strongest possible candidate in the Northwest and Middle west, would have a fighting chance to down Roosevelt or Taft at the polls in November. But if the dispatches from Washington bring us a correct story, the Peerless Pleader gave an exhibition of narrowmindedness the other day which could not have been exceeded by the arrogant and overbearing Senator Lodge from Massachusetts. It is written on what seems to be good authority that he passed by the two North Carolina Senators without speaking to either of them, and this deliberate snub was, undoubedly, the result of statements by the North Carolina Senators that they favored an uninstructed delegation from their State to the Denver convention. This leads the Charleston News and Courier to the observation that if the Peerless Pleader should be nominated in July and elected in November—and, by the way, while the July event is, of course, possible, the November one never can be—he would deliberately cut the North Carolina Senators when it came time to pass the federal sugar bowl in the state.

SOME GOSSIP POLITICAL.

Rumors of Republican Plan to Make Capital of Prohibition Election.

(Durham Herald.)

That the wet and dry issue is settled by a big majority is the popular belief and the prohibitionists are happy.

That it is not half settled but is to be an acrimonious contention this fall may be promised if the Republicans deliver the goods.

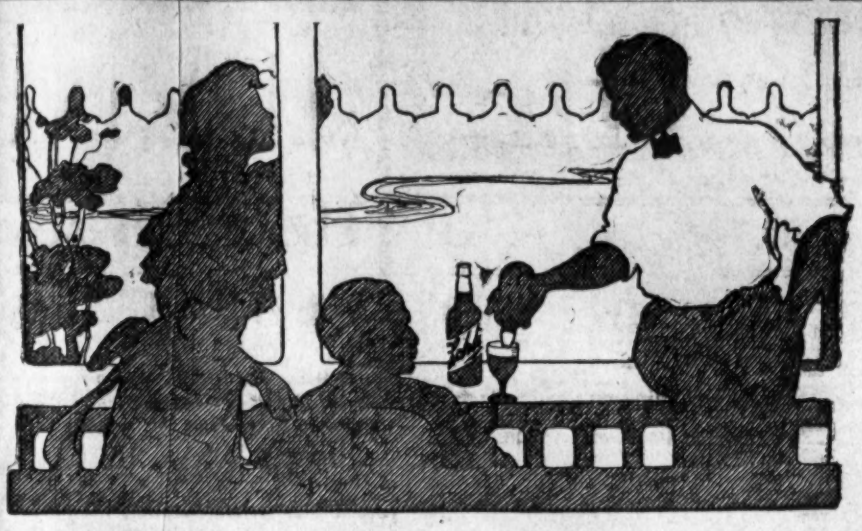
There is now going about the State an inquiry of leading Republicans as to the wisdom of making the prohibition bill an issue in the State campaign. It did not depend upon the success or failure of the bill. If it carried the leaders hope for more than if it had failed. Behind the scheme are the schemers, the smartest and the straitest, as well as the straightest

When ex-Congressman Thomas Settle was here he gloried in the fact that he introduced the resolution in the Republican convention sometime ago condemning the Democrats for violating the principles of autonomy so often declared in their party platforms and proclaimed from the stump. He said 90 per cent. of the convention favored it, but that the leaders squealed "like a pig under the fence" when he sprang it. He declared that he would do it again and it is declared by Republicans that know that Senator Marion Butler is sitting in his corner.

In the last two State platforms the Republicans have warmly advocated local self-government. They have fiercely denounced the Democrats who have rather receded from their position expressed so often in its favor, when legislatively disporting themselves upon temperance matters. The Republicans now are passing resolutions and incorporating a plank denouncing the prohibition bill just ratified by a good majority.

In discussing this matter last night, an unusually smart Republican told a reporter of The Herald that Senator Butler had told him that in all North Carolina history during his day the chances for success have not been so bright. He thinks 1894 was far less discouraging and he generally knows when to bob up. That Republican said: "As a matter of fact the Republicans have had as good temperance record as the Democrats. The Republican counties of the west have always been dry, almost, and our party has dried many by local option. It was never charged against us that we have used more whiskey in the campaigns than the Democrats have done and I suppose we haven't. But in the event that the State convention passes the resolution and writes a plank on the issue what effect would it have? Why I am sure that the Democrats could not hope to take any of our strength from us. Our men would vote for their nominees. It would not change the legislation, but North Carolina would be dry all the same. It would simply furnish us a formidable issue, one that all speakers, Democrats and Republicans, dodged on the stump, and I believe with Mr. Butler that the Republicans can carry the State this fall."

It is promised that in the event of the State convention adopting the plank, Butler, Dr. Cy Thompson, Dr. J. J. Mott, Thomas Settle, Judge Ewart and Walter R. Henry will take the stump. They would ask a division of time.



THE ALCOHOL in beer is a trifle—only 3½ per cent. The effective ingredients are barley and hops—a food and a tonic. Pure beer is both good and good for you.

In Germany, Holland, Sweden, Denmark and Austria beer is the national beverage. Nearly all people, of all ages, drink it.

And all the world envies their sturdy strength.

Every doctor knows how beer benefits. If you need more strength or vitality he will prescribe it.

But be careful to choose a pure beer, else you get harm with the good. And select a beer well aged to avoid biliousness.

The way to be sure is to order Schlitz. We go to extremes in cleanliness. We even filter the air that cools it. We age it for months. We sterilize every bottle.

Schlitz has no after effects.

Ask for the Brewery Bottling.
Common beer is sometimes substituted for Schlitz.
To avoid being imposed upon, see that the cork or crown is branded Schlitz.

Dr. R. Harllee Bellamy left on Friday night for Chicago, where he will attend the meeting of the International Medical Association. This convention will be attended by doctors from all over the world, men high in the profession, and the convention will be composed of probably eight hundred to a thousand members. Dr. Bellamy mediately requested to appear before the local Association a highly interesting article on "Pellagra," and the International Association having heard of Dr. Bellamy's discovery, he was immediately requested to apepar before the convention and read the paper. "Pellagra" is a disease which has never been known to have appeared in this country before, it being common to Egypt, and being produced by defective corn or meal and to Dr. Bellamy belongs the credit for its discovery. The invitation extended to Dr. Bellamy is one that brings much honor to himself and a great deal of pride and pleasure to his friends in its treatment of this disease.

The anticipations of those who love the pleasures afforded by the beach are shortly to be realized in the formal opening of the Tarrymoore and Seashore hotels on Monday, June 1st. For the past several years Wrightsville has been gradually growing in popularity until it has now become the veritable "Coney Island" of the South. The acommodations afforded by the Tarrymoore are all that could be asked. Boating, bathing, fishing, bowling, pool tables and every imaginable pleasure is offered by the genial proprietor of the Tarrymoore, and guests are assured in accepting the hospitality of the Tarrymoore that every opportunity will be afforded them for a pleasant outing. The reputation of the Seashore Hotel is so well established that it scarcely needs mention. Its fleet of small boats, pool tables, bathing facilities and the spiirt of acommodation which universally pervades at the "Seashore" are so well known that prospective guests need no assurances of the pleasure that awaits them at the hands of Captain Hinton.

Rocky Mount, N. C., May 30.—One of the most enjovable social events of the season was a combined hay ride and picnic given last Saturday evening by a number of the young people, of Rocky Mount, at Harris' Springs in honor of Miss Ruth Whittaker, of Trenton, and Miss Ballard Bunn, of Tarboro. The party, consisting of twenty-five, left Rock Mount at five-thirty in two wagons, went to Harriss' Springs where they engaged in different amusements, which were followed by a delightful lunch prepared by the young ladies of the party, after which all engaged in music and singing, as well as other amusements and having a good time in general for several hours. The most exciting event of the occasion was while all were peacefully strolling one of the young ladies shouted at the top of her voice "Snake," when she had seen a small piece of grass move. This caused all of them to jump to the highest place that could be found, and the Rock Mount base ball club is now busy looking them up in an effort to sign them as base runners. The party returned to the city about ten o'clock, all expressing themselves as having had a delightful time, and hoping that we would have another such evening in a short while.

After driving through the city the driver was instructed to stop in front of the popular Gem Theatre and all went in a body to see the performance, after which all departed for their homes.

Those in the party were as follows: Misses Ruth Whitaker, of Trenton; Balard Bunn, of Tarboro; Magie Dixon, Jennie Dixon, Kate Thomas, Louise Corinth, Harriette Philips, Fannie Gorham, Sarah Gorham, Patie Arrington, Carey Tuttle, Bia Tyree. Messrs. W. L. Anderson, A. R. Corinth, G. W.

Milwaukee Making Great Preparations for Entertaining Visitors in June.

The National Convention of the Travelers' Protective Association will be held in Milwaukee, Wis., beginning June 22nd and will continue throughout the week. It is expected that there will be an attendance of between 5,000 and 8,000 travelers and their friends on this occasion and the Wisconsin Division is making elaborate plans for their entertainment.

The business seshions will dispose of a number of important matters of interest to the traveling public. One subject of importance will be the encouragement of legislation in all States and in Congress to bring about the use of steel fire-proof cars on all railroads. It has been calculated that the largest percentage of loss of life and limb on railroads is due to the telescoping and burning of cars in train wrecks, which renders it impossible to release the victims before it is too late to save their lives.

The entertainment programme for the week is especially elaborate and will tend to sustain the reputation held by Milwaukee as a convention city.

SPEAKING PLAINLY.

The Judge's Request and the Counsel's Prompt Response.

A young and afterward distinguished attorney from an up country district of New York state was arguing his first appeal in the old general term of the supreme court. He had been in many legal scrimmages in justices' courts at home, but had never stood in the awesome presence of five sedate and learned judges of the supreme court in general term assembled. His embarrassment was great. He repeated himself and misplaced his words so often that it was quite evident that he must soon be routed by his own confusion unless something should occur to break the spell. Finally, and just as he was floundering the deepest in a chaotic jumble of language and ideas, the presiding judge interrupted with the following remark:

"Mr. Smithers, I believe it will be a great relief to yourself and to the court if you will address us in the same free and informal way that you doubtless use in addressing your local justice of the peace."

"Well, then," replied Smithers, "I wish that while I am busy alleviating your honor's dense ignorance of the law you would keep your confounded mouth shut!" The court laughed heartily and waved for him to proceed. He grew eloquent and won his case in the midst of hearty applause.—Bohemian Magazine.

Some of the Trials of Writers.

Professor Lounsbury of Yale calls attention to some of the difficulties of English grammar with which writers have constantly to struggle in their desire to avoid obscurity and be correct at the same time. In Harper's Magazine Professor Lounsbury takes up the use of "whose" as a relative pronoun referring to inanimate objects and justifies its use since nothing better can be devised. He discusses the use of the singular pronoun with the word "everybody," as in "There everybody met his friends." This is manifestly inadequate, and "his or her friends" is clumsy. Jane Austen, writes the professor, avoided the difficulty by using the plural pronoun, as in her sentence, "They say everybody is in love once in their lives." He thinks no satisfactory solution of this problem can, in the nature of the case, ever be reached.

A Feast of Kisses.

"I once visited the little town of Halmagen, in Roumania," said a strolling player who used to wander into the odd corners of the world, "but even I—and my hair is getting a little thin, and I wouldn't take first prize in a beauty contest—got enough kisses in one day to last an average lifetime. It seems that Halmagen from time immemorial has had an annual festival, and on this day the population of about eighty villages come swarming in. Every young woman of the town, married or single, goes out on this day carrying a vessel of wine and a small garland of flowers. To every visitor they offer a sup of wine and a kiss."—St. Louis Republic.

The past week witnessed the commencement exercises at St. Mary's School at Raleigh, N. C. Miss Ila Adele Rountree, of the Class of 1910, was on the honor roll for 1908. Among the special certificates in the music department were to Misses Mildred Borden, of Goldsboro, and Frances Bryan Broadfoot, of Fayetteville, for excellence in voice culture. Bishop Robert Strange spoke briefly of "The Joy of Service" in connection with the awarding of diplomas by Rev. George W. Lay, the rector. Bishop Strange held as one of the greatest parts of the joy of service, the doing of things worth while, that people existed not alone for their own gratification and to have things done for them, but that they would find that the greatest happiness and joy came from doing things for others, that merely being a receiver of gifts grew tiresome. Commencement is a season when students who graduate leave school work to commence on a new life, the taking up of real duties. He urged upon the graduates not to wait for things to happen but to do what they could just now. Especially did he dwell upon the necessity of womanhood, that the respect of all men might be secured. His plea was for high-minded women, and he declared that these would find the joy of service grow with the years, so that there would be nothing comparable with it.

GOLDEN JUBILEE TODAY

stowed by the members of the congregation upon its establishment and continuance. Not only the church in general, but a host of individuals contributed large sums of money anuually to its support. Many of the present members of the congregation served upon its board with zeal and fidelity. At one time as many as 100 scholars attended its sessions and its carriculum was so cmplete that its graduates were admitted from its portals into the colleges of the State. Despite all of the zeal and self sacrifice of the congregation it had to be abandoned in 1902, because of the lack of support on the part of parents in sending children to it, the public schools of the city having by that time attained a higher grade of efficiency.

A New System of Finances.

The current expenses of the congregation up to this time were met by pew rents, monthly dues and plate collections. This threefold source of income gradually proved insufficient, considerable difficulty having been experienced for more than a decade in meeting the financial needs. "The Apportionment System" was now adopted after thoughtful discussion, a system under which each member after consultation with committtee paid a weekly sum of money to the church according to his means and the pews became free. This system proved to be remarkably successful from the start, freeing the congregation from a host of trival financial burdens. The first committee appointed, which carried this system into effect, consisted of Messrs. A. D. Wssell, M. G. Tiencken, A. Smith, J. H. Rehder and F. W. Ortmann. The constitution was revised to meet the requirements of this new system and the revised constitution was adopted by the congregation.

Death of the Rev. B. H. W. Runge.

For several years the congregation had lookel forward to the day, when the first pastor should emerge from its ranks and go to labor for the Lord. The Christian Association and the congregation had taken a deep and helpful interest in his studies at Mt. Airy Theological Seminary, Philadelphia. Mr. Runge's health failed, however, at the time of his graduation and, although ordained to the office of the ministry (June 2nd, 1895), he was never permitted to labor in the vocation, which he so dearly loved, the Lord calling him to higher and more blessed labors on the 15th of June of the same year. His memory will ever be chrished in St. Paul's as a young man of deep piety and culture, the first pastor sent forth from our fold.

In 1896 Mr. John Haar was elected superintendent of the Sunday-school upon the resignation of Mr. J. D. H. Klander, the schools of the congregation at this time being in flourishing condition. The congregation as a whole was growing doctrinal strength through pastor Boldt's effective preaching and teaching, pastor and people became bound together into close bonds of love. This happy relation was severed, when pastor Boldt received and accepted an urgent call to his former congregation at Charleston (Sept., 1897), his resignation going into effect December 17th, 1897. He had been the pastor of St. Paul's a little more than four years, yet had accomplished much during this brief period. Within a few years after pastor Boldt's return to Charleston, he was summoned to his eternal reward, and soon thereafter he was followed by his faithful helpmate.

The Fifth Pastorate.

Before pastor Boldt's resignation had taken effect, the congregation had already called the Rev. A. G. Voigt, D. D., professor of theology at Newberry, S. C. pastor Voigt accepting the call, took charge of the congregation, June 1st, 1898, and was installed on the 19th of the same month by the Revs. G. D. Bernheim and K. Boldt. The congregation once more was fortunate in obtaining a spiritual head in so brief a time.

The events of this pastorate are so recent that most of the readers of these lines can recount them much better than the writer. One of the most important acts of his ministry was a wise provision, which materially increased the beneficiary contributions of the church. It was decided to devote all plate offerings to the various missionary and educational causes of the United Synod. The Sunday-school faling in line with this idea, began to set apart the offering for the first Sunday of each month to Home and Foreign missions. Through this plan the congregation gradually began to be a more important factor in the work of the Lutheran Church in the South.

The present arrangement of having German services on the second and fourth mornings of each mnth was adopted and met with general approval. During the fall of 1901 a Luther League was organized, which flourished for a time, taking the place of the "Young Peoples' Society" of a former pastorate. The fence, which surrounded the property of St. Paul's was removed a fine granite coping, costing almost $1,000 was put into place by the Dorcas Society and the church's indebtedness was reduced until less than $1,000 remained. The congregation entered upon a period of peace and harmony, factions having dissappeared and the various organizations and the congregation as a whole doing effective work. During this pastorate Mr. F. A. Bissenger was elected superintendent of the Sunday school to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Haar.

Pastor Volgt's pastorate, like pastor Boldt's, was brief. In July, 1903, he was elected dean of the Theological Seminary of the United Synod at Mt. Pleasant, S. C. a position, which his preeminent gifts as theologian, fitted him for in superlative degree. His resignation went into effect, Sept. 30th, 1903. During his pastorate of five years and four months the church had grown in breadth of vision. It had increased in liberality to the causes of the Church at large and had begun to feel its responsibility in the work of the United Synod. Under pastor Voigts instructive preaching, it had begun to think more of the great mission problems and the work of the Lutheran Church in the world.

The Sixth Pastorate.

The present pastor, the Rev. W. A. Snyder, was twice called by the congregation. Believing, that the Lord wished him to come to Wilmington, after he had received the second call, he resigned the congregation he had organized in West Reading, Pa., and came to St. Paul's assuming charge of the congregation March 1st, 1904. On the 13th of the same month he was installed by the Revs. G. D. Bernheim, D. D. and C. W. Kegley.

It is his pleasure to state that during the four years of his pastorate the congregation has shown itself active in every department of its work. In 1905 the Sunday-school was graded and in the following year a pleasant primary room was furnished. The whole interior of the rooms it occupied have been carpetted and frescoed. The ladies' societies and the Luther League have also fitted up handsome meeting rooms. The need of the school today is a larger auditorium. In 1906 Mr. Bissenger resigned the superintendency of the school and was succeeded by Mr. Otten. The school is in a most prosperous condition, having reached a high water mark in attendance and possessing an able corps of officers and teachers. Its teachers have been instructed in normal classes for the past two years. The various societies are increasing in size and efficiency. The pastor has instructed Saturday morning classes for the younger children of the Church, which have proved very fruitful. The Luther League of this pastorate was organized by the catechetical class of 1905 and since the time of its organization has had a rapid growth. During the past four years 125 adult members have been added to the church, 74 of that number being by confirmation. The present membership of St. Paul's is 410 members in good standing. The pastor, like the former pastors, has had the aid and support of every efficient Church Councils. Indeed, evry Council in the history of St. Paul's has been a credit to the congregation and although space forbids the mention of the names of the men, who have served us in office, let them be assured that their labors have not been in vain. The present elders, Messrs. L. Hanson and W. Nieslie, have served in their office side by side for 16 years. During the first year of this pastorate the congregation had the pleasure of seeing the second pastor emerge from its ranks, the Rev. H. W. A. Hanson, who is laboring in the office of the ministry most successfully in Alleghany, Pa.

The Greater St. Paul's.

In the congregational meeting of 1906, the pastor referring to the fiftieth anniversary of St. Paul's urged the congregation to commemorate the event by a suitable memorial. A committee was appointed to consider the matter and this committee decided to recommend the enlargement and embellishment of the church building. Subscriptions were taken and so well did the committee succeed in gathering funds, that at the next congregational meeting the whole plan was in tangible form and was adopted by the congregation. We need not dwell upon the plan as it is before our eyes in concrete form. The committee was now appointed a "building committee" by the congregation.

The Building Committee.

The pastor; Mr. L. Hanson, president; Mr. H. L. Vollers, secretary and treasurer; Mr. H. E. Bonitz, architect; Mr. J. G. L. Gieschen, Mr. C. W. Polvogt, Mr. M. G. Tiencken, Mr. J. H. Rehder.

In imitation of the first building committee these men displayed untiring energy and zeal. Every one of its members engaged most earnestly in the work. Between $8,000 and $9,000 was raised in money and memorial gifts, the entire building operations costing over $12,000. The congregation as a whole displayed the utmost liberality and interest in the work, and, to its credit be it said, that during the year, when the building operations demanded large gifts, the contributions for beneficience exceeded those of any previous year in its history. On September 15th, 1907, the cornerstone was relaid with appropriate ceremony, the pastor and the Rev. C. W. Kegley delivering addresses. So rapidly was the work pushed forward, that on Septuagesima Sunday (Feb. 16th, 1908), the congregation was able to occupy the enlarged church. During the period of construction services were held in Luther Memorial Building. The work of Mr. H. E. Bonitz our architect, whose interest in the work of his church did so much to produce our building, and that of J. D. Schad, the contractor, are more than worthy of honorable mention.

Everyone of the societies contributed something to the interior. The Christian Association furnished the electric lighting system, the Dorcas Society the additional pews, the Mengert Circle the opalescent organ chamber window and the Luther League the brass railing. Memorials were placed as follows: Gethsamene window in the chancel, Mrs. H. L. Vollers in memory of her parents, Elizabeth and Luhr Vollers (the silver offering plates and the brass cross having been given by Mr. E. Vollers in memory of Luhr Vollers in a former pastorate); Good Shepherd window in memory of deceased children by C. W. Polvogt, Mrs. A. M. Schulken, Miss H. Schulken C. H. Stemmerman, Mrs. H. Vollers, H. F. Otten, J. F. Rulfs, Sr., Mrs. H. Rehder, F. W. Ortmann, E. Schulken, Dr. J. H. Dreher, Dr. W. Niestlie, J. Hintze, H. T. Duls, Mrs. M. G. Tiencken, Mrs. D. Branch and a number of others contributing in a general offering, and the altar and chancel pannelling by Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Heyer in memory of Mrs. Heyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Heyer; brass pulpit Bible rest by Mr. and Mrs. Rathjen in memory of their son, Martin Rathjen, Jr. The brass altar desk was the gift of Mrs. J. T. Runge the pulpit edition of the Book of Worship on it, the gift of Dr. W. Niestlie and the curtains for the choir railing, the gift of Mr. J. H. W. Bonitz and family. On the eve of the first service a brass lectern was placed into position by those, who wished to surprise their pastor.

We have now arrived at the end of our sketch. There are many names of faithful members of St. Paul's which do not appear in these pages, but who, although not placed on the committees named herein, yet have done noble service for their dear church. St. Paul's, with all that the name implies, stands before us complete. In celebrating the golden jubilee, the fiftieth anniversary of its organization, let us be devoutly thankful to the Triune God for the past and the present. All things are ours. Let us appreciate what we possess, remembering the labors and the struggles of the many members of the past, who have left us the St. Paul's of the present as a glorious heritage.

Aldermen Revoke Liquor Licenses of Fourteen Drug Stores.

(Special to News and Observer.)

Charlotte, N. C., May 29.—The license to sell liquors which fourteen drug stores have had since 1904 was tonight revoked in the case of every drug store. Mayor Franklin casting the deciding vote, making it illegal to purchase whiskey in Charlotte under any circumstances whatever.

This makes Charlotte absolutely dry with the exception of the local clubs, which are chartered by the State and on which a fight may be precipitated later. The fourteen drug stores have just thirty days in which to dispose of their stock on hand.

COLIN THE WINNER.

The Crowd Enthusiastic Over His Success—His 14th Victory.
(By Wire to the Morning Star)

New York, May 30.—Greeted by the cheers of thousands of race goers whose idol he is, Colin, the great son of Emmando, won the valuable Belmont stakes at Belmont Park today. Not in many years, if ever, has there been such a demonstration of enthusiastic affection for a thorough-bred as that accorded Colin as he passed the finish line for his 14th consecutive victory. He was only a short head in front of August Belmont's Fall Play, but he stood a hard drive in the last furlong of the race without flinching. He was pulled up apparently strong and sound and as he came back to the judges' stand the crowd of more than 30,000 persons rose to their feet and cheered repeatedly while the band played "Hail to the Chief." The race was worth $20,765 to the winner and brings the horse's returns to his owner, James R. Keene, up to more than $160,000.

The rain was so thick that it was impossible to see the start of the race and it was not until the mud splashed racers had swung into the home stretch that the crowd was able through the curtain of rain to pick out the Keene colors in front. From that point to the finish there was a scene of wild enthusiasm that was hushed just for a moment when Fair Play came with a rush and challenged the winner. He just managed to win. The weather conditions were so bad that no time could be taken.

GENERAL DEFICIENCY BILL.

Conference Report Accepted—The Bill Discussed and Passed.
(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Washington, May 30.—The conference report on the General Deficiency bill, the last of the great government supply measures acted upon by Congress, was agreed to by the Senate today. It carried an appropriation of $30,718,848 of which $12,476,750 is to begin work authorized by the public buildings bill, the authorizations of which aggregate over $33,000,000. The House passed the bill at 8:30 tonight. The bill itself was only briefly discussed in the House, but it furnished an opportunity to Messrs Tawney, of Minnesota, and Fitzgerald, of New York, chairman and ranking minority member respectively of the committee on appropriations, to make the usual statements regarding the state of the National finances.

WARM WIRELETS.

Beach Hargis, in jail at Jackson, Ky., awaiting trial for the murder of his father, Judge James Hargis, attempted suicide last night by morphine. He will recover. Allen Creech now on trial for murder drank a pint of whiskey containing strychnine yesterday and is in a precarious condition.

The money is to be used for the erection of a new building near the present institute. The gift makes a total of $4,500,000,000 given to the institute by Mr. Rockefeller.

Miss Mattie Hodges, 609 S. Fifth St., Wilmington, N. C., says: "Since using Doan's Kidney Pills I have felt better in every way and I am pleased to add my testimonial to the many already given in favor of this remedy. I had kidney trouble for years. My back ached most of the time and when I stooped or lifted, sharp pains would catch me across the loins. I had no strength or energy and was also bothered by a kidney weakness. I used only one box of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Robert R. Bellamy's drug store, and they cured my backache, strengthened the kidneys and gave me renewed strength."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

"Well, sir," said the old gentleman indignantly, "what are you doing round here again? I thought that delicate hint I gave you with my boot just as you left the front door last night would give you to understand that I don't like you—won't have you—coming here." "It did," said the young man who was "after" the daughter, as a look of mingled pain and admiration came over his face; "but I thought I would come and ask you—" "Ask me what?" "If you wouldn't like to join our football club."—Stray stories.

Mr. Norman R. Coulter, a prominent architect, in the Delbert Building, San Francisco, says: "I fully endorse all that has been said of Electric Bitters as a tonic medicine. It is good for everybody. Electric Bitters is the best spring medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter; as a blood purifier it is unequaled 50c at R. R. Bellamy's drug store.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

—High Point, May 29.—There were 42 colored voters on the books of High Point township, and all, with the exception of one, voted solidly for prohibition, which was quite a commendable thing.

—Duplin Journal: 3,250 baskets of beans, besides Irish potatoes, hucks and cabbage left Faison Tuesday for Northern markets, the largest shipment of beans in many years but prices have dropped a good deal.

—Lumberton Robesonian: The Methodists of Lumberton have decided to build a new church at a cost of $20,000. At the close of a series of meetings last night subscriptions were taken for the first time and the sum of $7,000 was raised.

—Red Springs Citizen: The friends of Miss Mary McKinnon are giving her a warm and cordial welcome. She returned home last Tuesday from Hot Springs, Ark., where she has achieved high honors as principal of the leading conservatory of music in that State, to spend her vacation.

—Louisburg, May 29.—Dr. J. J. Mann, one of Loufsburg's leading physicians, died early this morning of heart failure after just a short illness. The funeral services were held this afternoon at 5 o'clock, Rev. Geo. M. Duke, officiating. He was about 40 years of age, and leaves a brother, Mr. W. Hal Mann, and two sons, Joseph and Pell Mann, and one daughter, Miss Ruth Mann.

—Charlotte News: Some time since The News made mention of Mr. J. C. McClure's improved ballot box, a recent invention of his. His boxes were used in some of the wards in the prohibition election last Tuesday, to test their quality and accuracy, and it was quite gratifying to Mr. McClure and his friends when he received a personal letter from the judges passing and recommending his invention.

—Lexington North State: While working at the Iola mines Wednesday evening Bob Glass was terribly mutilated from a dynamite explosion, dying from his wounds. Mr. Glass was setting six fuses and for some reason did not make his fuse long enough to give him time to light them all and get to a place of safety before the first one lighted went off. He was found literally torn to pieces and covered with rocks and dirt. Despite his injuries he lived until Friday morning.

—Elm City Mirror: The two negroes, Samuel Washington, who hails from Beaufort, S. C., and Arthur Mercer, who says his home is in Wilmington—who threw a piece of iron crashing through a window of a moving train on the Atlantic Coast Line railroad between the towns of Black Cree and Fremont, Tuesday afternoon and who were captured and locked in the Wilson jail Tuesday night, were yesterday morning tried before 'Squire R. E. Townsend and bound over to the Superior Court. Each claims that the other is the guilty one.

—Concord Times: A man who gave away a drink of whiskey at the polls in Ward No. 1 here last Tuesday was fined $100 and the costs by Police Justice Puryear yesterday. The violator said he did not know there was such a law, but this does not excuse him. The minimum fine for violation of this law is $100 and the maximum fine $1,000. This should be a lesson and a warning to others in the future. We learn that there were other violations of this statute at voting places in the county, and every one of them should suffer the law's penalty.

—Wilson, May 29.—It is with sad regret that we are called upon to part with such men as Rev. A. B. Cunningham and Rev. W. G. Walker, who it was thought would make this their permanent home, at least for a long while. At the last meeting of the convention of the Christian Church there was certain work laid out for these good men to do in this locality, but owing to the stringency of the times the work mapped out for them to do will be deferred for a time. Rev. Mr. Walker will, after a few days, leave for Texas, while the Rev. Cunningham will make his home in Indiana. These gentlemen have done much good while in our midst.

—Newbern Journal: There have been but very few storms for many years that have equalled Friday's outbreak in severity. While at its height it seemed almost like a cloud-burst. In fact the wind made the passage on the streets next to impossible. The farmers are despondent over the damage done their crops. Potatoes are nearly, if not quite ruined. The storm of last Saturday did them no good and the last almost seals their fate. The oat crop was much damaged, and beans are specked, spoiling them for market. Upon the whole the storm was of a nature that the memory of one goes a long ways. The forecast was for fair weather, and everybody wanted to blame the weather clerk, but he is doing the best he can, don't make him sorry. The storm was from the northeast, and doubtless was very severe at sea.

—Nashville, May 29.—This whole town is in mourning over the death of Master Otis Collins, of Nashville, who by accident was shot with an air rifle by his little playmate, Roy Bissett. Both boys are 12 years old. This is school commencement here and Guy invited his little friend Otis to be his guest. They were in the yard playing with Guy's air rifle, when, by accident, it went off, hitting Master Otis just below the heart. Dr. Charles A. Moore, of Wilson, was telegraphed for to come and perform an operation, but the little boy died before Dr. Moore could operate. Both boys were popular and were devoted friends and both families are almost prostrate with grief. Roy is almost beside himself. His father, Mr. Geo. N. Bissett, is at Hot Springs, Ark., and is very ill.

men, but their labors and deeds, their faith and fidelity, shine just as brightly.

Even in these early days it was affirmed, that the rising generation could not understand German well enough to be able to participate in the morning service. Accordingly for several years German services were held only on the first Sunday of each month, but this measure proved to be too severe. As the years passed by the language question came up time and again in the congregational meetings and many theories for its solution were proposed and tried. It is pleasant to state, that it has never created great strife of division, as has been the case in some congregations similarly situated.

When pastor Bernheim returned from Europe he attacked his work with former vigor, but again the strain proved to be too great. He resigned, but the resignation was not accepted, the congregation voting him $200 annualy for the services of a teacher. He remained with the congregation until 1881, his second resignation going into effect on the last Sunday of that year. Thus a fruitful pastorate of 12 years duration came to its close.

The Third Pastorate.

Before pastor Bernheim's resignation had taken effect, the congregation called the Rev. F. W. E. Peschau, of Nashville, Tenn, to succeed him. In this manner a long vacancy in the pastorate was avoided. Pastor Peschau accepted the call and arrived in the city, Mar 3rd, 1882. On the following day he preached his introductory sermon and later was installed by?

Just before this pastor's arrival an event of importance, as far as the finances of the congregation were concerned, had occured, viz., that the Christian Association, upon its dissolution had bestowed upon the congregation its accumulated money (between $1,000 and $1,100) and the Dorcas Society also coming forward with a sum of money at the same time, the congregation for the first time in its history was practically free of debt.

Pastor Peschau's pastorate began and continued under auspicious circumstances. His activity soon brought rich returns. The needs of a separate building for the Sunday-school, a parochial school and the church societies began to be felt. This need was supplied, when in 1883-84 "Luther Memorial Building" was erected at the corear of Sixth and Princess streets at a cost of $4,000, Messrs. J. F. Stolter, L. Vollers and F. W. Ortmann acting as a building committee. In 1882 the pastor gathered the younger members of the congregation into a "Young Peoples' Society," which flourished about eight years. It did much to interest the young in the church and cultivating a spirit of kindness and unity among them, which is felt to this day. Many of the men and women, now so active in our work, here received their first impulse toward congregational activity. Its first officers were: president, H. F. Otten; vice-president, C. E. Hall; rec. secretary, C. W. Polvogt; cor. secretary, Miss Kate Ganzer; treasurer, Miss Lizzie Grotgen; librarian, E. Schulken. A "Jugend Verin," organized to accomplish the same purpose among those preferring German, came into existence later (1892) and prospered for two years, the destruction of Luther Memorial Building terminating its life. Its first officers were: president, J. H. Kuck; vice-president, J. W. H. Fuchs; secretary, F. Richter; treasurer, Miss M. Strunk. In 1886 a constitution for the Sunday school was framed and with the congregation's approval adopted. In 1887 the Karrer-Schulken Fund was established by Miss Emma Karrer and Mrs. E. Schulken in memory of Mrs. K. D. Karrer and Mr. E. Schulken, Sr., the interest of the money placed therein being designated for the support of the pastorate. This fund has received additional bequests since its establishment and is open to all, who desire to leave the congregation some annual income.

In 1887 the pipe organ was purchased at a cost of $1,800 and consecrated. We may imagine, what joy and pleasure this instument produced, for up to this time the congregation had contented itself with a reed organ. The acquisition of the new organ marked a new epoch in the musical development of the congregational services. Prof. Van Laer was the first to officiate as its organist and, in this connection, we might mention some of those who have succeeded him, viz. ,Miss C. Chasten, Miss Eliza Adrian, Miss Margaret Peschau, Miss Anne Boesch and Miss C. Stolter.

During the Summer of 1888 the United Synod in the South met in our church and city, the sessions proving highly instructive and interesting to the members of the congregation. Entertainment was provided for this distinguished body in the well-known manner indicated by the term "Southern hospitality." In April of this same year the Christian Association was reorganized, under the following officers: president, H. L. Vollers; vice-president, J. D. H. Klander; secretary, I. H. Rehder; cor. secretary, H. J. Dinglehof; treasurer, G. W. Bornemann.

The Mengert Circle.

On October 2nd. 1889, the third congregational society was organized under the title, "Mengert Mission Circle," its purpose being to create interest in the mission work of the Church at large and to raise funds for its support. Children as well as adults were admitted to its membership, its name recalling the labors of the first pastor, fittingly commemorates his pastorate. Meeting without interruption to the present, this organization has contributed a great deal to the work of the Lutheran Church in the South and to the local work of the congregation. Although the word "mission" was dropped from its title at a later day, this in no wise indicates that its interest in the missionary work of the Church decreased. The first organization was constituted as follows: president, Mrs. H. Rehder; vice-president, Mrs. H. A. Glameyer; secretary, Miss M. Strauss; treasurer, Miss A. Doscher.

During the same year the constitution of the church was revised, an undertaking which required meeting upon meeting of the congregation. Two years later an attempt was made to begin a Lutheran congregation among the colored people, two individuals having offered a handsome sum of money towards the support of a pastor for this work. It was found, however, that the project was impracticable. Not so, however, the work among the seamen, begun by pastor Peschau at this period. With untiring energy he cultivated ability to preach in Scandinavian languages, and as the harbor in that day was filled with sailing vessels, whose crews to a large extent were Scandinavians, he accomplished a great deal of good among them. For several years the congregation was intensely interested in work among the seamen, but as with the advent of steamships the number and size of the crews, which touched here diminished, the field of usefulness also was narrowed. St Paul's ever sought to take both a temporal and spiritual interest in all Lutherans coming to the city.

The tenth anniversary of pastor Peschau's pastorate was celebrated in 1892, the church having been refrescoed, recarpeted and recushioned just before this event. In the souvenir booklet published upon that occasion, several gifts are mentioned, which we would recall: baptismal font, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Wessell; lectern and altar, Mrs. F. W. Heyer and Mrs. H. Rehder; Bibles, Mrs. Wright and Messrs. C. and J. Schmidt; hymnal registers, Messrs. H. and L. Vollers; silver set, Mrs. Laura Doscher; robe for the pastor, Dorcas Society; plush mountings, Mrs. A. Smith, Hymnal board, Mrs. H. Haar, Sr.; altar cloth, Mrs. E. Schulken.

St. Mathews Sunday School.

With the increase of the number of Lutherans in Wilmington, it was deemed advisable to open a branch Sunday-school in the northern part of the city. Pastor Peschau began this work April 15th, 1890, and with Mr. C. W. Polvogt as superintendent and an able corps of teachers, the work prospered to such an extent, that there was even some talk of organizing a similar school in the Southern part of Wilmington. In 1891 a lot was purchased on North Fourth street at a cost of $1,100 and a chapel erected thereon, whose cornerstone was laid, March 30th, 1891, by pastor Peschau and the Rev. G. H. Cox, president of the Synod. This chapel, costing $1,950, was occupied for the first time on the 17th of May. During the fololwing year (March 14, 1892) St. Matthew's was permitted to withdraw from the mother church, the latter waiving all claims, rights and titles thereto and wishing the young congregation Godspeed and blessing. The pastors, who served the new congregation since its organization are: The Rev. G. D. Bernheim, C. W. Kegley and G. S. Bearden.

Pastor Peschau tendered his resignation in 1892, the same going into effect on the last Sunday of February, 1893. During the 11 years of his pastorate the congregation had had been strengthened and increased ,its organization had become more fully matured and its missionary zeal cultivated. Freed to a great extent from the care of self-preservation, it possessed more time and opportunity to broaden its field of usefulness under his energetic leadership.

The Fourth Pastorate.

During the ensuing pastoral vacancy of eight months, pastor Bernheim suplied the pulpit. On the 15th of August, 1893, the Rev. K. Boldt of Charleston was called to the pastorate. Accepting the call pastor Boldt came to Wilmington and preached his introductory sermon November 19th, his installation occuring January 21st of the folowing year, the Revs. E. T. Horn, D. D. and G. D. Bernheim, D. D., officiating. Just before the arrival of pastor Boldt, Mr. J. D. H. Klander had been elected superintendent of the Sunday-school, in the place of Mr. Strauss, who after a term of 16 years had resigned.

The first event of importance in this pastorate was the introduction of the "Common Service," a service prepared by a joint committee composed of members appointed by the various Lutheran bodies in this country and based the best Lutheran liturgies of the 16th century. Though adopted previously the time for its introduction did not seem ripe until 1894, when it was used without friction resulting.

A Fire.

On January 10th, 1894, Luther Memorial Building was completely destroyed by fire, the flames originating in the apparatus left by some workmen on the roof during the noon recess. The parochial school, established in 1891, occupied a part of the building, at this time and was in such a flourishing condition that it was both the hope and pride of the congregation. Its home lay in ashes and its pupils and teachers gathered about the ruins a mournful band. The members of the Jewish synagogue immdiately offered the school use of their basement. but as the vestry room of the church and a room in the parsonage were available as a temporary home, there was no need of accepting the kind offer. Two weeks after the fire, the congregation with characteristic energy decided to erect a new and larger building. A building committee consisting of Messrs A. D. Wessell, A. Smith and F. E. Hashagen, completed the new building with the assistance of Mr. John C. Stout, its architect, before the close of the year. The laying of its cornerstone and its consecration are still fresh in the minds of most of our members. Thus the large and commodious building we now possess the meeting place of our schools and societies was acquired, the cost thereof being $5,124.

The new building completed, the parochial school flourished as never before. Much care and aid was be-

GOLDEN JUBILEE TODAY OF WILMINGTON CHURCH

Semi-Centennial of the Establishment of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Congregation in This City—An Interesting Historical Sketch of the Work Here.

(By Rev. W. A. Snyder.)

Can you imagine yourself in Wilmington, kind reader, on the 31st day of May of the year 1858? Let us wend our way down South Front street to the old Presbyterian Church, where men and women are assembling to organize a Lutheran congregation, and quietly take a rear seat. As we look over the little company, we recognize many whose residence in the city has been of several years duration, others who have but recently arrived, all of them evidently long to possess a church in which the pure doctrine of God's Word may be proclaimed and their longing is now to approach realization. Two pastors of the North Carolina Synod, the Revs. J. Linn and G. D. Bernheim, arrived in the city a few days ago as a commitee of visitation. They visited the Lutherans and conducted a service for them and now, with the echoes of that service still ringing in their ears, they have come prepared to organize a Lutheran congregation.

Silence has fallen on the little assembly, as the meeting is opened with a devout prayer in the Name of Jesus. They feel the pressure of their Lord and the certainty of His promise to guide the counsel His own in all their ways. The prayer ended, the purpose of the meeting is stated in clear and convincing manner. When at length the question is asked,"How many of you are now ready to organize and support a Lutheran congregation?" they ripe one by one and place their names on record. Fifty eight names are enrolled. How manifest the interest and enthusiasm of these fifty-eight! They decide to seek a suitable lot to build a church thereon and to call a pastor as soon as possible.

Thus the first city missionary enterprise of the North Carolina Synod came into being and the foundation of the St. Paul's of today was laid. Fifty years have passed since that day and now as a result of those resolutions a large congregation assembles in a beautiful building. Let us retain and cherish the mental picture of that first meeting. Let us be grateful to God for the purpose He gave those men and women and for the manifold blessings He bestowed upon their labors. In order that the present generation may not be ignorant of the annals of St. Paul's we venture upon a chronicle of its career.

To God alone be All Glory!

The First Pastorate.

Several months elapsed between the first and second congregational meeting during these months the newly-organized congregation sought a spiritual shepherd with ability to preach both in the German and English languages. Aided by the president of the Synod's missionary Society such a man was found in Evansville, Indiana. A call was extended to the Rev. John H. Mengert, who had labored with signal success both in the mission field of India and in the city of Baltimore, Md. His portrait depicts a man of refinement and piety, and withal a man of scholarly instincts, well adapted to the requirements of a city congregation. Accepting the call, pastor Mengert and his family reached the city on the 23rd of December, 1858.

On Epiphany (Jan. 6th), 1859, we see the fifty-eight again assembled in the Presbyterian Church. Under the leadership of their pastor the congregation now assumes a more definate form by electing a Church Council, the first Council of the church. The names of these men are worthy of record.

Trustees: Messrs. J. G. Brauman, H. B. Eilers, H. Von Glahn, E. Schulken, C. H. Vollers, H. Vollers. Elders: Messrs. N. Bremer, A. Adrian. Deacons: Messrs W. Knohl, H. Rehder.

Most of these men were connected with the work of St. Paul's for many years thereafter, their leadership and labors contributing largely under the blessing of God to the success of the congregation. Mr. H. Vollers, elected secretary of the congregation at the first meeting, remained in that office until 1895. The minutes, recorded in German until 1873 and thereafter in English display the most painstaking care and accuracy. The names of Messrs. H. B. Eilers, A. Adrian, N. Bremer and E. Schulken constantly recur in the annuals of the church in connection with earnest service; the first named served for a long period as president of the council. Mr. H. Rehder is the only surviving member of the first council, having been spared to witness the fiftieth anniversary of the church's organization. During the half century just closed he has served his congregation in many offices with fidelity. Mr. W. Knohl was the first president and Mr. J. G. Bauman the first treasurer elected.

It was ascertained that the session house of St. James Protestant Episcopal congregation might be secured for Sunday services and the trustees were authorized to rent and place it into proper conditions, so that the congregation might have a home until their own church could be erected. Ere long a suitable lot was offered for sale, situated on Market street near the corner of Sixth, running through to Princess street. This was purchased for $3,000 from Mr. John A. Taylor, owner contributing $500 of the purchase money towards the erection of the church building. In 1860 another lot at the corner Sixth street, running paralel to the first lot was purchased for $2,700 and thus the entire property now the pride of the congregation and the city came into our possession.

Under the supervision of the pastor a committee framed a constitution for the congregation, which was adopted March 27th, 1859 the signatures of seventy-two persons being affixed thereto. We may therefore regard these seventy-two persons as the charter members of the congregation.

God has spared the lives of eight of the seventy two, six of them having remained members of St. Paul's to this day.

The record books shows the following entries: first baptism, Helena Margareths, daughter of Johann and Catharina Von der Lieth; first marriage, Gerhard F. Hespe and Ann C. Huns; first burial, Matthias Bremer (aged 16 months).

On the 30th day of April, 1869, the congregation was admitted to the North Carolina Synod, a connection thus being formed, which has remained unbroken to the present time. During pastor Mengert's entire pastorate the Synod contributed to his support, the congregation receiving a total of $1,200 from this source. We should be ungrateful, if we failed to state also in this connection, that a large sum of money was contributed by individuals both in the North and in the South to the church building. The names of the many kind donors are of course unrecorded at this time, but should this sketch fall into the hands of any such, let him be assured of the lasting gratitude of the congregation.

As early as June (1859) Mr. H. Vollers submitted a plan for a Gothic church, 65 by 40 feet, with a vestry room in rear, 30 by 16 feet, the estimated cost of the proposed structure being from five to six thousand dollars. This plan was adopted and a building committee composed of Messrs. E. Schulken, H. B. Eilers, E. Von Glahn, W. Knohl and H. Vollers, was instructed to proceed at once with the erection of the church. So vigorously did this committee press the work, that on the 6th of September the cornerstone was laid. Let us imagine ourselves present upon that occasion. Pastor Mengert speaks in joyful tones of the doctrine, the strength and the work of the Lutheran Church to a large assembly and at the conclusion of his inspiring sermon, he solemnly lays the stone according to the ritual of our Church. The ceremony is concluded and the little flock gathers about the pastor, each heart full of the joy and happiness this first concrete form of their determination has created. Can we fully imagine their feelings or thoroughly appreciate all that this service has meant to them? Not unless we ourselves have passed through a similar experience.

The brick walls now rise, the tower and the roof are added and before the year 1860 comes to a close the exterior of St. Paul's is finished. The congregation had invited the Synod to meet in Wilmington during the coming Spring, in order that its members might be present at the consecration services. Until that joyous time should arrive, the congregation contented itself in the "session room" at the rear of the church, which was finished, the scene of so many meetings and labors during the years to come.

The War.

A few weeks before the meeting of the Synod the first battle of the Civil War was fought. The terrible conflict between the North and South threw every thing into confusion. Church enterprises, especially new one, languished. The synod convened in Wilmington, but not in the new Church. Many members of the congregation enlisted in the army; some fell in battle, some became victims to the yellow fever epidemic. The tale of suffering need not be retold. Sufficient to say, that the congregation's hopes slowly died Pastor Mengert, owing to this sad condition of affairs and its consequent effects, was forced to resign, his resignation taking effect, May 2nd, 1862. His pastorate had lasted three years and four months. So uncertain did the future seem, that the little remnant of Lutherans entertained no thought of calling a successor. Then followed a vacancy of seven years and eight months. During this long dark period the Sunday-school proved to be the one bright ray of hope left. With comparatively few interims it met in the session room each Sunday, under the leadership of Mr. H. B. Eilers, and kept the little band of adults and children together, as best it could, until a brighter day might dawn. All honor to the Sunday-school! It has performed a noble part in the upbuilding of our congregation!

Early in 1865 Ft. Fisher fell and the Federal troops were soon in possession of Wilmington. The interior of St. Paul's seemed to offer them not only desirable but suitable quarters. At their hands the building and everything in and about it suffered. Fencing, joists, pews, even the reading desk were used for fuel, while the beautiful tower, blackened by smoke of their fires, soon resembled a huge chimney. Without any regard for the sacred character of the building, they placed all sorts of inscriptions on the plastered walls. When these troops finally left the city and the Lutherans assembled to see how their building had fared, a sad sight greeted their eyes. Even the vestry room could not be used and the Sunday-school sessions were suspended. The last flicker of hope died, for it seemed impossible, that they would ever be able to replace their losses and complete the church. Many were in favor of abandoning the whole enterprise at once.

The Dawn of a New Day.

A rumor of this sad state of affairs reached the Rev. G. D. Bernheim, then residing in Charlotte. Fearful for the extinction of the congregation he has-

with the results of war all about them, in the darkest hour of a great trial, their cause having fallen, yet resolutely taking up the work of their church, must serve as an inspiration to every generation of St. Paul's! By the month of July, 1869, they had completed the building and were now in possession of a beautiful church richly furnished and comparing favorably with the finest churches of the city. Even a bell hung in the tower, a gift of the firm of Adrian and Vollers, mutely awaiting the, day when it should call men and women to the consecration of the church.

The Consecration of the Church.

On Sunday, August 22nd, 1869, after a decade of waiting, the sorely tried Lutherans are permitted to assemble for the consecration of their church. They had invited him, whose influence and zeal had made the event possible, the Rev. G. D. Bernheim, and also the Revs. C. H. Bernheim, L. Muller and W. A. Julian. The pastors and the council surround the altar and the beautiful words of consecration are spoken by pastor Bernheim. What thoughts of gratitude now fill the hearts of the faithful few; yet mingled with these thoughts are the sad memories of the dead. At the morning service pastor Bernheim preaches on Lk. 10; 23, 24; at the afternoon service pastor Miller preaches on S. 26: 6, 8; and at the night service pastor Julian preaches on Canticles 6:10. It is stated on the morning service, that there are 47 millions of Lutherans in the world. Today we can speak of 75 millions, a glorious increase!

The Second Pastorate.

The greatest need at this time was a pastor. Three days after the consecration service the congregation decided to call the Rev. G. D. Bernheim, who had thrice come to their aid and who had always led them to success. The call was accepted, pastor Bernheim arriving with his family in the city, December 29th, 1869. He found many labors awaiting him. During the long pastoral vacancy many children and adults had drifted into other churches. A goodly number of Lutherans had come to Wilmington after the war and these needed to be gathered. Spiritual interest needed awakening. The finances of the congregation demanded both prayerful and careful thought. Pastor Bernheim prosecuted his work with such vigor, however, that as a result both the congregation and the Sunday-school grew, the latter becoming 60 strong. Upon the resignation of Mr. H. B. Eilers from the superintendency of the school, Mr. H. G. Hashagen was elected his successor. The pastor organized and instructed a class of catechumens, fourteen of whom were confirmed on Good Friday, April

Pastor Bernheim was installed on the fifth of June by the Revs. L. A. Bickle and D. I. Dreher. During the same year it was resolved, that the Lord's Supper should be administered four times annually. The attendance at public services was good and the membership of the congregation increased about forty per cent.

The year 1870 was marked by two important events, the erection of the parsonage and the organization of the Christian Association. The congregation has never believed in half measures and this spirit manifests itself in the large and comfortable parsonage situated on its property. At the time of its erection it compared favorably with the finest and largest homes of the city. The pastor, together with Messrs. H. Haar and B. H. J. Ahrens were the committee on construction. The enterprise was started as a venture, but ended in success. The cost of construction was $4,757. The congregation of today is most fortunate in its material possessions; the forethought of the fathers, who so wisely provided, even to the extent of planting the trees, which beautify our property, was remarkable.

The Christian Association.

On October 23rd (1870) an invitation was extended to the male members of the congregation to organize a "Christian Association," whose purpose should be that of enlisting the energies of men in the kingdom of God. This organization, which came into being on the 29th of October, has been of benefit not only to its members, but to hosts of others. Quietly fulfilling its purpose it has played an important part in the history of the church. Its beneficience aid has gone forth to aid men in distress and destitution, in bodily and spiritual sickness.

Easter Monday of this same year having been set apart by the German Emperor as a day of Thanksgiving for the victory of the German army over the French, the Germans across the sea celebrated the day. In Wilmington a large assembly met at St. Paul's, where pastor Bernheim, the chosen orator, delivered an address suitable to the occasion and conducted services.

Fruitful Years.

When we reach a period in history, in which there are no stirring events to record, we have come as a rule to a period of inner development. Such a period now begins in the history of St. Paul's. During the years 1872 and 1873 the congregation grew numerically and in inward stregth. The foundation was laid for that conservative type of Lutheranism, which has prevailed up to the present. The financial burden was becoming lighter and it seemed as if the congregation would soon be free of debt. But in the fall of 1873 a financial panic began to sweep over the land and its effects were keenly felt in this city early in 1874. Some of St. Paul's members left the city and a succession of sudden deaths, in nowise connected with the panic, filled all hearts with dismay. Again in a somewhat gloomy period the Synod met in Wilmington, this time, however, convening in the church. The homes of our people were thrown open wide in generous hospitality and so impressed was a visitor from Pennsylvania ,the Rev. J. Fry, that he wrote of the congregation in glowing terms upon his return to the North. The effects of the panic soon passed and prosperity again reigned. An attempt was made by pastor Bernheim to conduct a Wednesday night service, and although he continued this effort for three years, it was at no time well attended. Not so, however, the daily services during Holy Week, which also were introduced at this time. They proved highly successful in every respect. In 1876 pastor Bernheim opened a school in several rooms of the parsonage, which at the outstart was attended by 80 pupils. This school proved to be the cornerstone of an elaborate parochial school system, which obtained at later period. During the same year Mr. W. H. Strauss was elected superintendent of the Sunday-school in the place of Mr. Hashagen, who had resigned. We cannot pass by this period without mentioning a name, that of Mr. John Baker, who became sexton of the church ,and whose faithful labors in this office for 33 years are so closely linked with the history of his and our congregation.

The cares of the pastor and teacher proved to be too heavy for pastor Bernheim. The congregation accordingly granted him an indefinite leave of absence to visit Europe, with the hope that his good health might be restored. During this interval the ministerial office was supplied by the Rev. F. P. Cook, now of Jewett, O., whose services are still remembered by the older members of the congregation.

The Dorcas Society.

The second society of St, Paul's was organized during the Summer of 1877. It was a ladies' society, whose purpose it was, "(1) To liquidate the debt of the church, and also to render any other assistance, which the wants of the church may demand; (2) To provide as far as our means will allow, for any sickness or destitution among the ladies or children of our congregation.' Its first officers were: president, Mrs. G. D. Bernheim; vice-president, Mrs. H. B. Eilers; secretary, Miss Lissette Bernheim; treasurer, Mrs. H. Vollers. To record the labors of this society would require a separate booklet. As we pass through our buildings and over our grounds, we see everywhere evidences of its kindness and activity. Its history, like the life of Dorcas, is full of good works. Indeed, the congregation owes a lasting debt of gratitude to the women of the church. Their names may not appear so frequently in its records as those of the

If it had been natural for the grand duchess to faint it was equally natural that she should not faint twice. She began to believe, after all, that Providence smiled upon Virginia and her adventure, and she wondered whether the princess' white satin embroidered with seed pearls or the silver spangled blue tulle would be more becoming to wear to the ball.

Next day the Rhaetian newspapers devoted columns to the attack upon the emperor by an anarchist from a certain province (once Italian), who had disguised himself as an official in the employ of the burgomaster. There were long paragraphs in praise of the lady who, with marvelous courage and presence of mind, had sprung between the emperor and the assassin, receiving on the arm with which she had shielded Unser Leo a glancing blow from the weapon aimed at the imperial breast; but, thanks to a few earnestly imploring words written by Lady Mowbray to Baron von Lyndal, commands impressed upon the landlord of the hotel and the fact that Rhaetian editors are not as modern as Americans in their methods, the lady was not named. She was a foreigner and a stranger to the capital of Rhaetia. She was, according to the papers, "as yet unknown."

CHAPTER EIGHT

NOT a window of the fourteenth century yellow marble palace on the hill, with its famous garden of the nine fountains, that was not ablaze with light, glittering against a faraway background of violet mountains crowned by snow.

Outside the tall bronze gates where marble lions crouched the crowd that might not pass beyond stared, chattered, pointed and exclaimed without jealousy of their betters. Unser Leo was giving a ball, and it was enough for their happiness to watch the slow moving line of splendid state coaches, gorgeous automobiles and neat broughams with well known crests upon their doors; to strive good naturedly for a peep at the faces and dresses, the jewels and picturesque uniforms; to comment upon all freely, but never impudently, asking one another what would be for supper and with whom the emperor would dance.

"There she is—there's the beautiful young foreign lady who saved him!" cried a girl in the throng. "I was there and saw her, I tell you. Isn't she an angel?"

Instantly a hearty cheer went up, growing in volume, and the green coated policemen had to keep back the crowd that would have stopped the horses and pressed close for a long look into a plain dark blue brougham.

Virginia shrank out of sight against the cushions, blushing and breathing quickly as she caught her mother's hand.

"Dear people—dear, kind people!" she thought. "I love them for loving him. I wonder, oh, I wonder, if they will ever see me and cheer me driving by his side!"

She had chosen to wear the white dress with the pearls, though up to the last moment the grand duchess had suffered tortures of indecision between that and the blue, to say nothing of a pink chiffon trimmed with crushed roses. Before the carriage brought them to the palace doors the girl's blush had faded, and her face was as white as her gown when at her mother's side she passed between bowing lackeys through the marble Hall of Lions, on through the frescoed Rittersaal to the throne room, where the emperor's guests awaited his coming.

It was etiquette not to arrive a moment later than 10 o'clock, and a few minutes after the hour Baron von Lyndal in his official capacity as grand master of ceremonies struck the polished floor twice with his gold knobbed wand of ivory. This signaled the approach of the court from the imperial dinner party, and Leopold entered, with a stout, middle aged royal highness from Russia on his arm.

Until his arrival the beautiful Miss Mowbray had held all eyes, and even when he appeared she was not forgotten. Every one was on tenterhooks to see how she would be greeted by the grateful emperor.

The instant that his dark head towered above other heads in the throne room it was observed even by those not usually observant that never had Leopold been so handsome.

His was a face remarkable for intellect and firmness rather than for classical beauty of feature, though his features were strong and clearly cut. But tonight the sternness that sometimes marred them in the eyes of women was smoothed away. He looked young and ardent, almost boyish, like a man who has suddenly found an absorbing new interest in life.

The first dance he went through with the Russian royalty, who was the guest of the evening, and, still rigidly conforming to the line of duty, which obtains in court ballrooms as on battlefields, the second, third and fourth dances were for the emperor penances instead of pleasures. But for the fifth, a waltz, he bowed before Virginia.

During this long hour there had been hardly a movement, smile or glance of hers which he had not contrived to see since his entrance. He knew just how well Baron von Lyndal carried out his instructions concerning Miss Mowbray. He saw each partner presented to her for a dance the emperor might not claim, and to save his life or a national crisis he could not have forced the same expression in speaking with her royal highness from Russia as that which spontaneously brightened his face when at last he approached Virginia.

"Who is that girl?" asked Count von Breitstein in his usual abrupt manner as the arm of Leopold girdled the slim waist of the princess and the eyes of Leopold drank light from another pair of eyes lifted to his in laughter.

It was to Baroness von Lyndal that the old chancellor put his question, and she fluttered a tiny diamond spangled fan of lace to hide lips that would smile as she answered, "What, chancellor, are you jesting, or don't you really know who that girl is?"

Count von Breitstein turned eyes cold and gray as glass away from the two figures moving rhythmically with the music to the face of the once celebrated beauty. Long ago he had admired Baroness von Lyndal as passionately as it was in him to admire any woman, but that day was so far distant as to be remembered with scorn, and now such power as she had over him was merely to excite a feeling of irritation.

"I seldom trouble myself to jest," he answered.

"Ah, one knows that truly great men are born without a sense of humor. Those who have it are never as successful in life as those without," smiled the baroness, who was by birth a Hungarian and loved laughter better than anything else except compliments upon her vanishing beauty. "How stupid of me to have tried your patience! 'That girl,' as you so uncompromisingly call her, has two claims to attention at court. She is the English Miss Helen Mowbray whose mother has come to Kronburg armed with sheaves of introductions to us all. She is also the young woman of whom the papers are full today, for it is she who saved the emperor's life."

"Indeed!" said the chancellor, a gray gleam in his eye as he watched the white figure floating on the tide of music in the arms of Leopold. "Indeed!"

"I thought you would have known, for you know most things before other people hear of them," went on the baroness. "Lady Mowbray and her daughter are staying at the Hohenlangenwald hotel. That's the mother sitting on the left of Princess Neufried—the pretty Dresden china person. But the girl is a great beauty."

"It's generous of you to say so, baroness," replied the chancellor. "I didn't see the young lady's face at all clearly yesterday. I was stationed too far away. And dress makes a great difference. As for what she did," went on the old man, whose coldness to women and merciless justice to both sexes alike had earned him the nickname of "Iron Heart"—"as for what she did, if it had not been she who intervened between the emperor and death it would have been the fate of another to do so. It was a fortunate thing for the girl, we may say, that it happened to be her arm which struck up the weapon."

"Or she wouldn't be here tonight, you mean," laughed the baroness. "Don't you think, then, that his majesty is right to single her out for so much honor?" Her eyes were on the dancers, yet that mysterious skill which most women of the world have learned taught her how not to miss the slightest change of expression, if there were any, on the chancellor's square, lined face.

"His majesty is always right," he replied diplomatically. "An invitation to a ball, a dance or two, a few compliments, a call to pay his respects—a gentleman could not be less gracious. And his majesty is one of the first gentlemen in Europe."

"He has had good training what to do and what not to do." The baroness flung her little sop of flattery to Cerberus with a dainty ghost of a bow for the man who had been as a second father to Leopold since the late emperor's death. "But—we're old friends, chancellor"—she was not to blame that they had not been more in the days before she became Baroness von Lyndal—"so, tell me, can you look at the girl's face and the emperor's and still say that everything will end with an invitation, a dance, some compliments and a call to pay respects?"

Iron Heart frowned and sneered, wondering what he could have seen twenty-two years ago to admire in this flighty woman. He would have escaped from her now if escape had been feasible, but he could not be openly rude to the wife of the grand master of ceremonies at the emperor's ball, and, besides, he was not unwilling perhaps to show the lady that her sentimental and unsuitable innuendos were as the buzzing of a fly about his ears.

"I'm close upon seventy and no longer a fair judge of a woman's attractions," he returned carelessly. "A look at her face conveys nothing to me, but were she Helen of Troy instead of Helen Mowbray the invitation, the dance, the compliments and the call, with the present of some jeweled souvenir, are all that are permissible in the circumstances."

"What circumstances?" and the baroness looked as innocent as an inquiring child.

"The lady is not of royal blood, and his majesty, I thank heaven, is not a roue."

"He has a heart, though you trained him, chancellor, and he has eyes. He may never have used them to much purpose before, yet there must be a first time, and, the higher and more strongly built the tower, once it begins to topple the greater is the fall thereof."

"Is it the sense of humor, which you say I lack, that gives you pleasure in discussing the wildest improbabilities as if they were events to be considered seriously? If it is I'm not sorry to lack it. In any case, it's well that neither of us is the emperor's keeper."

"We're at least his very good friends, you as well as I in my humbler way, chancellor, and you and I have known each other for twenty-two years. If it amuses me to discuss improbabilities, why not? Since you call them improbabilities it can do no harm to dwell upon them as ingredients for romance. Not for worlds would I suggest that his majesty isn't an example for all men to follow nor that poor, pretty Miss Mowbray could be tempted to indiscretion, but yet I'd be ready to make a wager, the emperor being human and the girl a beauty, that an acquaintance so romantically begun won't end with a ball and a call."

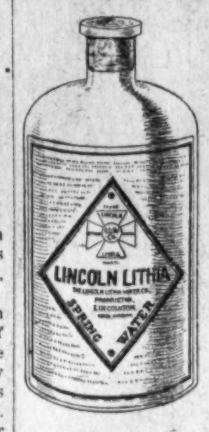
LINCOLN LITHIA WATER LINCOLN LITHIA WATER



$4.00 per case of one dozen half gallon bottles. Cases refilled for $2.60. When your case is consumed, return in good order to our agents, HOLMES GROCERY CO., and they will supply you with a fresh case for $2.60.

All Water Bottled at the Spring.

Its action in the Uric Acid Diathesis, Obstinate Dyspepsia of long standing, Nausea of Pregnancy, complicated with Chronic Bright's Disease of the Kidneys, Nephritic Colic, etc.

GEORGE G. THOMAS, M. D., Wilmington, N. C. ex-President N. C. Medical Society, Member American Medical Association and American Public Health Association, Chief Surgeon Atlantic Coast Line, etc., says:

"I am thoroughly satisfied with the excellent results that followed the prescribing LINCOLN LITHIA WATER in my practice when quite a quantity of it had been given a patient of mine who was suffering with a Dyspepsia that had about exhausted my efforts to cure. I suggested that he use LINCOLN LITHIA WATER very freely and to the exclusion of all other water. The treatment was a most successful one and the relief that ensued has been permanent.

"A little later I prescribed this water for the Nausea of Pregnancy on a patient with Chronic Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. It materially mitigated the suffering, and I believe kept her condition in a favorable state for the whole term. It has always increased the diuretic effect of alkalies and been of benefit to persons suffering with a Lithic acid Diathesis. In my own person, I am sure it has warded off two attacks of Nephritic Colic, and relieved me of an Excess of Uric Acid. There is never a day that it is not used in my house. A patient, who has been a dyspeptic always, is signally benefitted by LINCOLN LITHIA WATER It most assuredly then does correct and control the diposition to an excess of lithic acid; it does relieve atonic, gastric indigestion, and it does, as a result of one or both of these improvements, build up the general system, improve the appetite and digestion. It is as well a most delightful drinking water, no amou t of it that one can take ever giving the consumer the uncomfortable sense of fullness that follows very large draughts of water generally. The high percentage of lithia and the comparatively low percentage of other mineral ingredients, especially lime and soda, make the indications for its use by gouty and rheumatic patients the more pronounced."

A. W. KNOX, M. D., Raleigh, N. C., Member N. C. Medical Society: "I have used the LINCOLN LITHIA WATER quite extensively in my practice during the past five or six years. In the Uric Acid Diathesis; in controlling the tendency to Nephritic Colic, in Dyspepsia, in Albuminuria, and I have come to regard it with great confidence. Indeed, so highly do I appreciate its efficiency in the disturbances of the Renal Functions, that I regularly prescribe its systematic use to the exclusion of ordinary drinking water as a Preventive of Renal Complications during the last three or four months of pregnancy in the cases of all my patients who can afford it."

LINCOLN LITHIA WATER is an invaluable and efficient agent for the cure and prevention of Rheumatism, Gout and all complaints arising from Uric Acid Diathesis, Bright's Disease, Gravel Stone and all Affections of the Kidneys and Bladder, particularly those requiring an alkaline treatment, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nervous Debility and Exhaustion, and remarkably curative in Affections peculiar to Women.

BUG DEATH

One of the great growers of seed potatoes in Maine who has made a life study of Irish potatoes, has demonstrated beyond question that it is impossible to apply Paris Green to potato vines in any quantity without weakening the vitality of the tuber. Bug Death will not injure the plant but will stimulate its growth. It will not wash off, it is perfectly harmless to animals and people, and has a wonderful power to prevent blight, rust and those diseases so generally prevalent among melons and vegetables.

—Richmond, Va., May 29.—President Edwin Anderson Alderman, of the University of Virginia, will sail on Saturday for Europe for a brief rest. Leaving just three weeks before the end of the session, when the festivitis of commencement take place, the matter has caused considerable comment, but it is explained that Dr. Alderman is suffering from the strenuous life he has led for the last two years, under which his health has given way. His physicians declare that a rest at this time will bring about his entire recovery. There is no truth in the rumor that Dr. Alderman will leave the University of Virginia to accept the presidency of the University of New York City, which was offered him at a salary of $15,000 a year.

—King's Mountain Herald: Mr. A. B. McGill, of the Bethany section, York county, S. C., received Tuesday a crate of grey foxes for his place There were ten in the crate and it is understood that Mr. McGill will turn them loose on his place and give them a chance to multiply. The animals came here from Shelbyville, Tenn., being shipped from the yards of the well known breeder J. D. Stodghill. Mr. McGill is associated with others in his neighborhood who are trying to make fox-hunting a lasting sport. There have been quite a number of foxes turned loose recently and if the number is kept growing by additions, foxes will be plentiful in York.

ANNUAL REVIEW CONGRESS' CLOSE

Of The Appropriations Made For The Expenses of The Government.

DEMOCOATS TO ACCOUNT

For the Increased Appropriations Made by the Present Congress—Charged With Causing Increased Appropriations.

(By Wire to the Morning Star)

Washington, May 30.—Representative Tawney, of Minnesota, chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, today presented to the House his annual review of fiscal appropriations and expenditures. The key note of his speech was sounded in the declaration that "the insistent demands of the people and of the public service result in an increased aggregate when enacted into law" and "the efforts of the majority to maintain a policy of greater economy were frustrated by an obstructive and recalcitrant minority." Mr. Tawney in opening said:

"The annual expenditures of our government exceed those of any other government in the world. It requires constant application from the beginning until the close of the session and most careful discrimination, to prevent needless appropriations for the Federal Government or unauthorized appropriations for the exercise of governmental functions belonging to the States, or for the doing of that which belongs exclusively to private interests."

Referring to the filibuster which has marked the last third of the present session Mr. Tawney said: "It is a matter of sincere regret that, to accomplish a political purpose or to gain some partisan advantage the minority in this House deemed itself justified in disregarding its responsibility by pursuing the policy it has followed for almost two months under the leadership of the distinguished gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. Williams) a policy which made it necessary for the majority, in order to transact any public business, to adopt rules of procedure under which non-partisan questions in relation to the appropriation of public monies could not be considered with that freedom of discussion and action that otherwise would have enabled this House to prevent many of the increases that were finally agreed to.

Mr. Tawney said that a review of the demands made upon Congress at this session showed that the estimates for the established public service and for previously authorized public works for the next fiscal year were more than $156,000,000 in excess of appropriations made for the same purpose during the last session of the 59th Congress, and that these demands did not rest in fact upon the necessities of the public service, but "were supported mainly by official recommendations to Congress backed by the approval of the press of the country, and they consisted largely of increased compensation to those in the civil and military branches of the public service."

Mr. Tawney stated the total appropriations for the session to be $851,088,670. He said the total revenues of the government estimated to Congress by the Secretary of the Treasury are placed at $878,123,011; that in addition to the authorized expenditures of $851,088,670 for the operation of the government during the next fiscal year, appropriations are also made as follows:

In deficiency acts, exclusive of $12,466,750 for public buildings authorized at this session, $44,529,223; for requirement of the sinking fund $58,000,000; for redemption of National bank notes $25,000,000; for construction of the Panama canal (bonds to be issued) $29,187,000; for miscellaneous and special objects $1,000,000, including $250,000 for the relief of storm and flood sufferers in Southern States and $403,000 for the payment of claims of the Roman Catholic church in the Philippine Islands; making a grand aggregate for the next fiscal year of $1,008,804,894.

Mr. Tawney said that the estimates submitted to Congress by the executive committees as a basis for the appropriations made amounted to $1,079,449,288, or an excess of $70,644,394 over the total of the appropriations of this session, and an excess of $158,651,145 over all the appropriations made at the last session.

In conclusion Mr. Tawney said: "Whatever the unthinking or the superficial critic may now say, the impartial and non-partisan historian will hereafter record and truthfully state that, in the affirmative work performed and in contending against and successfully resisting unconstitutional demands upon the powers and the treasury of the Federal Government, the work of no previous session is comparable with the work of the first session of the 60th Congress.

Mr. Towney was followed by Mr. Fitzgerald, of New York, ranking minority members of the appropriations committee, in the absence of Mr. Livingston, of Georgia. Mr. Fitzgerald reviewed the appropriations of the session from a Democratic standpoint. He arraigned the Republican party mercilessly for what he stigmatized as a shameful squandering of the public funds. He predicted a staggering deficit to be impending, and denounced the President, the executive departments of the Government and the Republicans in Congress as its causers.

"The Congress," continued Mr. Fitzgerald, "is now about to adjourn. This session has been the most profligate in our history. Extravagance has run riot; the Treasury has been depleted, the public money has been shamefully squandered.

"The responsibility rests with the Republican party. It cannot evade the issue," he said, adding, "The appropriations for the next fiscal year aggregate the enormous sum of $1,008,804,894, as against aggregate estimates by departments of $1,077,449,288."

Mr. Fitzgerald quoted the estimated revenues for the fiscal year 1910 (treasury figures), as $878,123,011. "Never but once in our history," he said, "did the expenditures of our government reach the thousand-million-dollar mark."

Training his fire on the administration, Mr. Fitzgerald continued: "After the war with Spain, under the presidency of Theodore Roosevelt, the cost of maintaining the Government for four following years was 10 per cent. greater than during the same period when war was waged. Evidently, Mr. Speaker, some things are expensive and come high."

Making a further comparison, Mr. Fitzgerald said: "Under Cleveland, the per capita appropriations for the army for four years were $1.35; for the navy $1.54; for fortifications 20 cents; the average per capita for the three years for such service $3.90.

"Under Roosevelt, in his second administration for the army for the four year period are $3.66, more than two and one-half times the amount under Cleveland; for the navy $4.91, more than three times the amount under Cleveland; for fortifications 32 cents, more than 50 per cent. increase over Cleveland, and the average per capita cost for the three services under Roosevelt is $8.90, two and one-fourth times as great as under Cleveland."

After entering into a more detailed set of comparisons at large, comprising figures from Great Britain fiscal records Mr. Fitzgerald continued:

"Surely these significant facts have not permeated the recesses of the White House nor found even a temporary lodgement in the active brain of the President."

Referring to the estimate he said: "Since these estimates were submitted to Congress the country has been afflicted with a panic. The business and industrial depression is growing rather than lessening. Yet in the plethoria of messages to the Congress from the chief executive, there has not been a single warning to safeguard the interests of the people by resolutely repelling all attempts to raid the Treasury. Indeed, when the history of this session is impartially and truthfully written, as it will be some day, the wielder of the 'big stick' will be pictured in heroic size at the head of those who openly encouraged or secretly abetted by him, have successfully rifled the peoples' strong box."

Mr. Fitzgerald had this to say of the promised tariff revision:

"For the present fiscal year the receipts will fall $61,000,000 below the estimates. The industrial situation is not improving; the approach of a National election will not be a stimulant to business; the promise of revision of the tariff 'by its friends' will tend further to accentuate a constantly growing industrial depression."

In conclusion Mr. Fitzgerald said: "This is a government by party. The Republican party is responsible for the result of this session. Responsibility cannot be shifted from the House to the Senate, not from the Congress to the executive. The Republican party is in control of all these, and is called upon to answer for its action. The Democracy is willing to submit the issue to the intelligence of the American people and to abide the result of their judgment."

HARVARD THE WINNER.

Its Boat Crew Defeats Cornell in an Easy Contest.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Boston, Mass, May 30.—In a pouring rain and in the teeth of a strong easterly wind Harvard defeated Cornell in the fourth annual race for 'Varsity eights over the mile and 7-8 course on Charles river today by ten lengths. The elapsed time was Harvard 10:47; Cornell 11:24.

Both crews caught the water simultaneously, Harvard rowing about 38 to the minute and Cornell several strokes lower. The high pace was maintained for about an eighth of a mile, the Crimson quickly securing a lead. The eights then slowed down and at the quarter mile Sargent, the Harvard stroke, was setting a pace of 33 with Cornell showing 31 to the minute. At Harvard bridge the boats struck rougher water and filled badly. Here the Cornell stroke tried to raise the pace, but only registered 32 while the Crimson came up to 34. Harvard steadily increased the lead and passed the mile flag over five lengths ahead. Cornell could not maintain the pace. Its crew lost its rythm and the bow-four splashed badly. The Harvard eight shot over the finish line a winner by ten lengths.

STORM STOPS THE GAME.

The Yale-Princeton Game Interrupted by a Violent Storm.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New Haven, Conn., May 30.—A storm broke over Yale field just as the first championship baseball game between Yale and Princeton Universities had reached an interesting point in the fourth inning this afternoon, compelling the teams to take to shelter and converting the enthusiastic crowd of 6,000 into a worried lot of spectators. The game was called off then, and thereafter the wind springing up drove the rain in sheets into the grand stand, and flooded the diamond. Princeton had made six hits and two runs off Howard Jones, while the Yale batsmen found Clark, who started to pitch in place of the mighty Heyninger, for one hit and had scored a run by clever base running. The postponed game will be played June 10 in this city.

CONGRESS HAS ADJOURNED

Fight in the Senate on Currency Bill—Obstructive Tactics in the House Mr. LaFollette to the Fore —Other Notes.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Washington, May 30.—The passage of the government employes' liability bill and the adoption of conference reports on the public buildings and the deficiency appropriation bills immediately followed final action on the Aldrich-Vreeland compromise currency measure in the Senate today and thus was disposed of most of the remaining important legislation before that body. The deficiency bill carries appropriations aggregating $30,718,848 of which $12,466,750 is for beginning work authorized by the public building bill.

The Senate at 4:27 o'clock this afternoon passed the Aldrich-Vreeland currency bill by a vote of 43 to 22, this action being taken after a day devoted to a filibuster against the measure. Senators Stone, of Missouri, and Gore, of Oklahoma, occupied the time of the Senate after 7:03 o'clock this morning, when Mr. LaFollette retired. Mr. LaFollette broke the record for long speeches, holding the floor continuously for 18 hours and 43 minutes.

At 6:30 o'clock this evening the Senate took a recess for two hours.

House of Representatives.

The House late today passed the Omnibus Public Building bill. Immediately after the official announcement in the House of the agreement by the Senate of the conference report on the currency bill Speaker Cannon recognized Mr. Barthodlt, Missouri, who called up the conference report on the measure and requested that the rules be suspended and the report adopted.

Continuing his obstructive tactics, Mr. Williams, of Mississippi, insisted on the reading of the report in full, which consumed much time.

Mr. Barthold explained in detail the various points of the report.

Vigorous protests were made by Mr. Williams because of the fact that the conference report had been held up until today in order to force the enactment of currency legislation that was not desired. He rather suspected, he said, that there had been "something of a running partnership between these two high potentates, the Speaker of the House and Mr. Bartholdt."

The vote on the adoption of the report stood, yeas 214, nays 4, present and not voting 8, those in opposition being Messrs. Alexander, Missouri; Crumpacker, Indiana, Fitzgerald, New York, and Longworth, Ohio.

The Senate and House both passed a resolution for adjournment sine die at 11:30 P. M.

ON THE TINDER PATH.

Cornell Wins in the Inter-Collegiate Athletic Contests.

(By Wire to the Morning Star)

Philadelphia, May 30.—Under weather conditions that were about as well as could be imagined for a track meet the stout hearted athletes of Cornell University on Franklin field won the inter-collegiate championship, the premier college athletic event of the year, by a margin of 4 1-2 points. The total points scored by the Ithicans was 34. Pennsylvania was second with 29 1-2; Yale third, 22; Harvard fourth 17 1-2 and Dartmouth, fifth 17.

Michigan and Swartmore each made 6 points Princeton and Columbia 4 each, and Syracuse 3.

No records were broken, but good time was made, considering the conditions. A heavy rain which set in early in the day was coming down in torrents when the meet began. The track was flooded in many places and the field was ankle deep with water.

Cornell's all round work was excellent, her men scoring in seven events. The Ithicans took four firsts, three seconds, two thirds, and one fourth. Pennsylvannia also scored in capitol at 9 o'clock last night. He seconds, one third, one fourth and dividing one fourth place. Cornell practically won the meet on her showing in the two mile race.

LIABILITY BILL.

This Measure Pased by the Senate With Only One Negative Vote.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Washington, May 30.—The government employees liability bill providing for the payment of damages for injuries or death caused while in the service which has been the source of no little uneasiness to its sponsors in the Senate, was taken up today and pased by that body after brief consideration. It was called up by Mr. Depew after the final disposition of the Currency Bill and upon a vote on consideration, Senator Bailey was found to have cast the only negative ballot. He made a brief statement expressing his opposition to the principle of the bill, but said, "in view of the decisive vote in favor of taking up the measure, I shall allow the Senate to make a fool of itself without further protest by me."

On motion of Senator McLaurin the provision in the bill penalizing any government employee who should be deemed guilty of illegally reciving compensation for injuries was stricken out. The Senate refused, however, to insert Mr. McLaurin's amendment, placing upon the Circuit Courts the duty of adjusting claims under the proposed law.

The Vice President last night announced the appointment of Senators Aldrich, Allison, Burrows, Hale, Knox, Daniel, Teller, Money and Bailey as members of the currency commision recently authorized by act of Congress.
